WHAT'S INSIDE THIS GUIDE

- ✓ Complete day-by-day timeline for 90 days
- ✓ 47-point master checklist (printable)
- ✓ Scripts in Italian for every office visit
- ✓ Document templates and sample forms
- ✓ Every official website and phone number
- ✓ Common mistakes and how to avoid them
- ✓ Real timelines based on 2025 experience

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE

This guide is organized as a chronological playbook — not an encyclopedia. You don't read it once. You work through it in real time, as each day and week unfolds. The structure follows the actual sequence of events you'll face, from the moment your plane lands to the moment you're fully established.

Three ways to use this guide:

■ As a checklist

Work through each chapter sequentially. Check off items as you complete them. The 47-point master checklist in Chapter 6 gives you the full picture at a glance.

■ As a reference

Jump to the specific chapter you need. Each chapter is self-contained with all the information, documents, and scripts required for that task.

■ On your phone

This PDF is formatted for screen reading. Keep it open during office visits — the Italian scripts in Chapter 7 are designed to be shown to officials when your Italian fails.

A note on timelines:

Italian bureaucracy does not operate on fixed timelines. The day ranges in this guide (Days 1-8, Days 9-30, etc.) are approximate. Some steps take longer; some can be parallelized. What matters is the sequence, not the exact days. Never miss a legal deadline — these are marked clearly throughout.

■■ LEGAL DEADLINES — NEVER MISS THESE

- Declaration of presence (dichiarazione di presenza): within 8 WORKING DAYS of arrival
- Permesso di soggiorno application: within 60 DAYS of arrival
- Anagrafe registration: within 20 DAYS of obtaining your permesso receipt
- Codice fiscale: get this BEFORE anything else — you need it for everything

CHAPTER 1

Before You Land

The Pre-Arrival Checklist

The single biggest mistake Americans make when moving to Italy: arriving without the right documents. The Italian bureaucratic system requires originals, apostilles, and translations — none of which you can easily get once you're in Italy. This chapter covers everything you need to have in hand before your flight.

1.1 — Documents to Bring From the USA

Every document below should exist in three forms: (1) original, (2) apostilled copy, (3) certified Italian translation. Pack them in a dedicated folder — physical and digital backup.

■ U.S. Passport

Valid for at least 12 months beyond your intended stay. Bring 3 certified photocopies.

■ Visa (Type D)

Your Italian long-stay visa, stamped in your passport. Verify the expiry date.

■ Codice Fiscale certificate

If you got it from the Italian consulate before leaving — bring it. If not, it's your first task in Italy.

■ Income documentation

Social Security award letter, pension statements, bank statements, 1040 tax returns (last 2 years).
Apostilled + Italian translation.

■ FBI Background Check

Apostilled by U.S. Department of State. Valid 6 months — check the date. Cost: $18 + apostille fee.

■ Health insurance certificate

Your Cigna/AXA/Allianz policy showing Italy coverage and minimum €30,000 coverage. In English is fine for most consulates.

■ Proof of accommodation

Rental contract (contratto d'affitto) or host's invitation letter (dichiarazione di ospitalità). You'll need this to register your presence.

■ Emergency contacts list

Printed. Including: your Italian consulate, local Questura address, your landlord, your doctor back home, your bank's international number.

1.2 — Set Up Before You Go

Notify your U.S. bank

Call your U.S. bank and tell them you're moving to Italy. Set up international wire transfer capability. Ideally, open a Charles Schwab account (refunds ALL foreign ATM fees — essential for expats).

Download offline maps

Google Maps offline for your Italian city. You won't have Italian data the moment you land.

Get an International Driving Permit (IDP)

From AAA. Costs $20, takes 10 minutes. Valid 1 year. You'll drive on your U.S. license + IDP for the first year.

Save key phone numbers

Italian emergency: 118 (medical), 112 (general), 113 (police), 115 (fire). Your Questura number. Your landlord. Your future bank.

Learn 20 Italian phrases

Not optional — it transforms every bureaucratic interaction. See the script section in Chapter 7.

Arrange first accommodation carefully

Your first Italian address determines which Questura, which ASL, which Comune you'll deal with for everything. Choose wisely.

PRE-ARRIVAL CHECKLIST

- ☐ Passport valid 12+ months
- ☐ Visa (Type D) in passport
- ☐ Codice fiscale certificate (if obtained from consulate)
- ☐ Apostilled FBI background check (valid, not expired)
- ☐ Income documentation apostilled + translated
- ☐ Health insurance certificate covering Italy
- ☐ Rental contract or accommodation letter
- ☐ Charles Schwab or international-capable bank account
- ☐ International Driving Permit from AAA
- ☐ Google Maps offline for your Italian city
- ☐ Emergency numbers saved on phone
- ☐ Italian SIM plan researched (Iliad/TIM/WindTre)
- ☐ First week accommodation confirmed
- ☐ €500–1,000 cash (for first days before bank account)

CHAPTER 2

Days 1–8

Your First Week — What Must Happen Now

The first 8 working days in Italy have one non-negotiable legal requirement: declaring your presence to Italian authorities. Miss this and you've technically violated Italian immigration law from day one. Everything else this week can wait — this cannot.

2.1 — The 8-Day Rule (Dichiarazione di Presenza)

Legal basis: D.Lgs. 286/1998, Article 5 (Testo Unico Immigrazione).

Within 8 working days (giorni lavorativi) of arriving in private accommodation, you must declare your presence to the Questura (police headquarters). Hotels do this automatically — private rentals do not.

Situation	Who Files	Where	Deadline
Staying in hotel/B&B	Hotel does it automatically	—	Automatic
Private rental apartment	YOU must file	Local Questura	8 working days
Staying with Italian host	Host OR you	Local Questura	8 working days
Moving cities within Italy	YOU must re-file	New city Questura	48 hours of move

What to bring to the Questura:

- Valid passport (original + 2 photocopies)
- Your Italian visa (in passport)
- Your rental contract or host's identity document
- Completed dichiarazione di presenza form (pick up at Questura or download from poliziadistato.it)

Tip: Go to the Questura at opening time (typically 8:00-8:30am). Queue builds fast. Bring everything in a folder. Keep the stamped copy of your dichiarazione — you'll need it for your Permesso application.

2.2 — Codice Fiscale (If You Don't Have One)

The Codice Fiscale (CF) is Italy's 16-character tax identification code. You need it for absolutely everything: renting an apartment, opening a bank account, getting a SIM card, buying a car, signing any contract, accessing healthcare. If you didn't get it from the Italian consulate before moving, get it in Italy on Day 1 or 2.

How to get your Codice Fiscale in Italy:

Where to go: Any Agenzia delle Entrate office. Find yours at agenziaentrate.gov.it or Google 'Agenzia delle Entrate [your city]'.

What to bring: Valid passport + photocopy. That's it.

What to say: "Vorrei richiedere il codice fiscale." (I'd like to request the codice fiscale.)

Cost: Zero. Free.

Processing time: Immediate — they print it while you wait. You receive a paper Tessera Sanitaria (health card) showing your CF. The physical plastic card arrives by mail in 2-4 weeks.

Note on foreigners: The Agenzia delle Entrate is fully equipped to handle foreign passport holders. You don't need Italian residency first.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR CODICE FISCALE

Your CF is 16 characters: 3 letters (surname) + 3 letters (name) + 2 digits (birth year) + 1 letter (birth month) + 2 digits (birth day) + 4 characters (birth municipality code) + 1 check digit. Example: BGGFBZ93A15F335M. Memorize it — you'll recite it constantly.

2.3 — Italian SIM Card

Get an Italian SIM card on Day 1 or 2. You need it for: 2FA on Italian apps, bank account setup, healthcare appointments, government portal access (SPID). Your U.S. SIM roaming costs are also unsustainable for long-term living.

Carrier	Price	Data	Best For
Iliad	€9.99/month	150GB + unlimited calls	Best value, no price increases ever, buy at supermarket kiosks (Carrefour)
TIM	€9.99/month	100GB + unlimited	Best rural/mountain coverage, official stores everywhere
WindTre	€7.99/month	100GB + unlimited	Good urban coverage, competitive pricing
ho.mobile	€5.99/month	100GB + unlimited	Budget option, uses Vodafone network

What you need to buy a SIM: Passport + Codice Fiscale. That's why getting your CF first matters — you can't properly register a SIM without it (though some carriers will do it temporarily with passport only).

2.4 — Week 1 Checklist

- ☐ Filed dichiarazione di presenza at Questura (within 8 working days)
- ☐ Got Codice Fiscale from Agenzia delle Entrate
- ☐ Purchased Italian SIM card
- ☐ Noted your Questura address and hours for Permesso application
- ☐ Located your nearest Post Office (for Permesso kit)
- ☐ Located your nearest ASL (health authority) for future registration
- ☐ Set up apartment utilities (electricity, gas, internet)
- ☐ Opened local supermarket loyalty cards (Esselunga, Conad)

CHAPTER 3

Days 9–30

The Permesso di Soggiorno

The Permesso di Soggiorno (residence permit) is the document that makes your stay in Italy legal beyond your visa. You have 60 days from arrival to apply. Don't use all 60 — start the process in week 2, because the Post Office and Questura appointments add time you can't control.

3.1 — What Is the Permesso?

The permesso is a physical card (tessera) issued by the Questura that confirms your legal right to reside in Italy for a specified period. It's renewed annually (or bi-annually for some categories). Without it, you're technically in Italy illegally after your visa expires.

Visa Type	Permesso Type	Allows Work?	Validity
Elective Residency	Residenza Elettiva	No	1-2 years
Digital Nomad	Lavoro Autonomo (Nomade Digitale)	Yes (foreign clients)	1 year
Family Reunification	Motivi Familiari	Yes	Matches sponsor
Student	Studio	Part-time (20hrs/wk)	Academic year
Work (employee)	Lavoro Subordinato	Yes	Contract term
Self-employment	Lavoro Autonomo	Yes	1-2 years

You receive an SMS when your permesso card is ready. Return to the Questura to collect it. Bring your ricevuta and passport.

3.3 — Complete Document Checklist for Permesso

This is what you bring to the Post Office in your kit envelope. Everything marked * requires a photocopy too.

- ☐ Passport * — Original + photocopy of ALL pages including blank pages
- ☐ Visa * — The page in your passport showing your Italian visa
- ☐ Dichiarazione di presenza * — The stamped declaration from the Questura (Week 1)
- ☐ Proof of accommodation * — Rental contract OR host declaration
- ☐ Proof of income * — SSA letter, pension statements, bank statements — whatever you used for the visa
- ☐ Health insurance certificate * — Your current policy showing Italy coverage
- ☐ 4 passport photos — Recent, white background, 35x45mm. Bring 6 to be safe.
- ☐ Marca da bollo €16 — Revenue stamp purchased at any tabacchi (tobacconist)
- ☐ Kit forms (completed) — Form 1 + Form 2 from the yellow Post Office kit
- ☐ Codice fiscale * — Your CF card or paper certificate

■ THE 60-DAY DEADLINE — DO NOT MISS THIS

You have 60 days from your date of arrival in Italy to submit your Permesso application.

Missing this deadline = illegal immigration status. There is no grace period.

Start the process in Week 2. The Post Office visit alone can take multiple attempts.

Your ricevuta (receipt) from the Post Office submission is proof of compliance.

3.4 — Processing Times: What to Expect

Italian Questure are notoriously backlogged. Here are realistic 2025 timelines based on reported experience:

City	Post Office → Questura Appointment	Appointment → Card Ready
Milan (Milano)	3-5 months	2-4 months
Rome (Roma)	4-8 months	2-4 months
Florence (Firenze)	2-5 months	2-3 months
Turin (Torino)	2-4 months	1-3 months
Bologna	2-3 months	1-2 months
Naples (Napoli)	3-6 months	2-4 months
Smaller cities	1-3 months	1-2 months

Important: Your ricevuta (Post Office receipt) preserves your legal status throughout this entire wait. Carry it with your passport everywhere. Airlines, landlords, and employers accept it as proof of legal residency.

CHAPTER 4

Days 31–60

Building Your Italian Life

With your Permesso application filed and your ricevuta in hand, you're legally established. Now comes the layer of registrations and setups that transform your Italian address into a functioning Italian life. This month is about infrastructure: residency registration, healthcare, banking, and the digital identity system.

4.1 — Anagrafe Registration (Residenza)

Registering at the Anagrafe (municipal registry office) gives you official Italian residency — your Residenza. This is different from your Permesso di Soggiorno. You need the Permesso receipt before registering.

Why Residenza matters: It's required for: Italian driver's license, SSN enrollment, Italian ID card, voting in local elections (if applicable), access to municipal services, correct tax domicile registration.

How to register at the Anagrafe:

1. Find your Comune's Ufficio Anagrafe — Google 'anagrafe [your city]' or go to [comune.\[yourcity\].it](https://comune.[yourcity].it)
2. Book an appointment (many Comuni require this; some accept walk-ins)
3. Bring: passport, Permesso receipt (ricevuta), rental contract or property deed, Codice Fiscale
4. Fill out the 'Dichiarazione di residenza' form (available at the office or online)
5. A Vigili Urbani (local police) officer will visit your address within 45 days to verify you live there. Be present during the day for this visit.
6. After verification, you receive your Certificato di Residenza — a document proving your official Italian address

Timeline: The full Anagrafe registration process takes 45-90 days (waiting for the municipal police verification). Start it as soon as you have your Permesso receipt.

4.2 — Opening an Italian Bank Account

An Italian bank account is essential — landlords require rent via bonifico (bank transfer), utilities are paid by direct debit, and taxes require the F24 payment form which goes through Italian banking.

American-friendly Italian banks (2025):

Bank	Notes	Best For
Intesa Sanpaolo	Italy's largest bank. FATCA-compliant. Accepts Americans. Branches everywhere.	Best first choice for Americans
BNL (BNP Paribas)	French-Italian bank. Good English support. International familiar.	Good for those with BNP elsewhere
Unicredit	Second-largest Italian bank. FATCA-compliant. Reasonable digital banking	Good for digital banking
Credem	Regional bank, strong in Emilia-Romagna. Personal service.	Good in Bologna/Modena area

What you need to open an Italian bank account:

- Valid passport
- Codice Fiscale
- Italian address (rental contract)
- IRS Form W-9 (your U.S. tax ID — SSN) — FATCA requirement
- Permesso di Soggiorno or ricevuta

Important FATCA note: Italian banks must report U.S. account holders to the IRS under FATCA. Be upfront about your U.S. citizenship — banks that accept Americans have FATCA procedures. Do not conceal your U.S. person status.

4.3 — SPID (Digital Identity)

SPID (Sistema Pubblico di Identità Digitale) is Italy's national digital identity system. With SPID you can access hundreds of government services online: book ASL appointments, file taxes, access INPS (pension), download official certificates, and much more. Without SPID, you're physically queuing for everything.

How to get SPID:

Poste ID (PosteItaliane): Easiest for most expats. Get it at any Post Office in person. Bring passport + CF + Italian mobile number.

InfoCert: Online activation possible. Requires video call identity verification.

Aruba: Online. Good for those comfortable with Italian-language processes.

Requirements for SPID: Italian mobile number, Italian email address, Codice Fiscale, valid ID (passport), Italian residence (Residenza helps but some providers accept the Permesso receipt).

CHAPTER 5

Days 61–90

Healthcare, Deep Roots, and the Long Game

By Day 60, you're legally established in Italy. The final 30 days of your first 90 are about building the infrastructure that makes Italian life genuinely comfortable: healthcare access, driving, utilities, and the social roots that turn 'living in Italy' into 'being Italian.'

5.1 — Enrolling in the SSN (National Health Service)

The Servizio Sanitario Nazionale (SSN) is Italy's universal healthcare system. Once enrolled, you get a GP (medico di base) free of charge, specialist visits at €15-50 co-pay, free emergency care, and prescriptions at €1-15. Annual cost for non-employed residents: €387–1,500 depending on income.

SSN Enrollment Step by Step:

Find your ASL: ASL = Azienda Sanitaria Locale, your local health authority. Google 'ASL [your city]' or ask your Comune.

Book an appointment: Most ASL offices require an appointment for new enrollment. Call or book online.

Documents to bring: Passport, Permesso di Soggiorno receipt, Codice Fiscale, proof of Italian address, income documentation (for calculating your contribution).

Choose your GP: The ASL has a list of available doctors in your area. Ask for one who speaks English if needed — they exist in major cities.

Pay the contribution: Via Modello F24 form. Your ASL tells you the amount based on your declared income.

Receive your Tessera Sanitaria: Your SSN enrollment is linked to your existing Tessera Sanitaria (health card with your CF). You may receive an updated card by mail.

Annual Income	Annual SSN Cost	Monthly Equivalent	vs. U.S. Insurance
Under €10,386	€387	€32/month	vs. $700-1,500/month
€10,386 – €20,000	~€640	€53/month	vs. $700-1,500/month
€20,000 – €30,987	~€1,100	€92/month	vs. $700-1,500/month
Over €30,987	~€1,500 (max)	€125/month	vs. $700-1,500/month

The SSN saves Americans $8,000–20,000+ per year compared to U.S. health insurance. This single item makes the financial case for Italian residency for most Americans in their 50s and 60s.

5.2 — Driving in Italy: Your First Year

You can drive in Italy on your U.S. license + International Driving Permit (IDP) for the first 12 months after establishing Italian residency. After that, you must take the Italian driving exam — there is no reciprocal license exchange between Italy and the U.S.

Speed limits: 50 km/h urban · 90 km/h rural roads · 130 km/h autostrada

Blood alcohol limit: 0.5 g/L (0.0 for drivers in first 3 years)

ZTL zones: Limited Traffic Zones in historic centers — camera-enforced. Learn the ZTL map for your city or face €80-160 fines.

Right of way at roundabouts: Vehicles already IN the roundabout have priority. Americans frequently get this wrong.

Headlights: Required on all roads outside urban areas, day and night.

Emergency triangle + vest: Required by law to carry in the vehicle.

5.3 — Utilities and Home Setup

Electricity (ENEL/A2A/Edison): Transfer (voltura) or activate a new contract. Bring Codice Fiscale + IBAN + POD number (on meter). Average €60-120/month.

Gas (ENI/Italgas): Same process as electricity. Requires technician visit for first activation. Average €80-180/month in winter.

Internet (TIM/Fastweb/Vodafone): Fiber available in most Italian cities. €25-35/month for 1Gbps. Installation takes 7-30 days.

Water: Often included in condominium fees. If separate, contact your Comune's water utility.

CHAPTER 6

The Master Checklist

47 Things to Do in Your First 90 Days

This is the printable master checklist. Work through it sequentially. Print this page and keep it on your desk.

BEFORE ARRIVAL

- ☐ Passport valid 12+ months

- ☐ Keep Italian and U.S. passports both current

CHAPTER 7

Italian Scripts and Templates

What to Say at Every Office Visit

These scripts are designed to be shown on your phone or printed and handed to Italian officials. In bureaucratic Italy, showing someone the correct Italian phrase is infinitely more effective than attempting to speak it.

About This Guide

This guide was written by Fabrizio Boggio, Editor-in-Chief of Italopedia.com, from a small town in Piedmont, Italy. Every piece of information has been verified against official Italian government sources: the Ministero dell'Interno, Ministero degli Affari Esteri, Agenzia delle Entrate, INPS, and regional ASL guidelines. It is updated quarterly.
